A PLAYFUL TRIO OF NEW RELEASES WHICH COMBINE REALISM, SURREALISM, WILDLIFE AND WIT IN A VIBRANT WORLD TOUR.

Steve Tandy's adventurous rockhoppers are a long way from home in these witty and whimsical compositions, where normality and the bizarre co-exist in a colourful alternate reality.

Steve references the modern city alongside movie scenes, cars, landmarks and more, to create dazzling representations of the world we live in. He often replaces the expected human element with wildlife as in this new collection, and in his more serious moments he includes subtle hints about caring for the planet, referencing deforestation, climate change and changing wildlife habitats, creating a whole extra layer of resonance for a contemporary audience.

The new collection captures the personalities of his rockhopper penguins, making them appear almost human and putting them in settings inspired by some of his favourite cityscapes.
